

DATA BREACH NOTIFICATION POLICY

Policy statement

This policy sets out the procedures to be followed by Music for Galway in the event that personal data stored or processed is subject to a breach.

Definitions

- Personal data: Any information relating to an identified or identifiable natural person.
- A personal data breach: a breach of security that leads to the destruction, loss, alteration, unauthorised access to, or unauthorised disclosure of personal data.
- Processing: Applies to both automated personal data and to manual filing systems where personal information is accessible according to specific criteria.
- Data controller: A person, organisation, company or legal entity who controls and is responsible for keeping and the use of personal data on computer or in structured manual files.
- Data processor: A person, organisation, company or legal entity who processes personal data, but does not exercise responsibility for or control the personal data.

Detection of personal data breaches

The CEO must be informed as soon as a member of staff becomes aware of their PC, laptop or mobile phone being hacked, lost or stolen.

The CEO must also be informed of a break-in to office spaces where personal records are held.

Responding to personal data breaches

Should a breach be detected, the CEO must be notified immediately.

The CEO will then follow the appropriate steps outlined in this policy and shall document any personal data breaches, comprising the facts relating to the personal data breach, its effects and the remedial action taken.

Notification to supervisory authority where Music for Galway is the data controller

- In the case of a personal data breach which is likely to result in a risk to the rights and freedoms of data subjects, the controller shall notify the supervisory authority within 72 hours of becoming aware of the breach.
