BREATHE...

...when choosing the name, we did not foresee how topical it would become. We chose it for the coming season, first and foremost because a strong presence of the voice emerged in programming: it will be celebrated in choral settings, as we welcome one of the world's finest vocal ensembles, Stile Antico, and in Galway Messiah, an exciting participatory event in association with Resurgam. Young singers of the INO studio will bring an operatic element to the season, while tenor Gavan Ring with pianist Fiachra Garvey will introduce us to McNeff's Ballads of a Bogman.

We are living in times of turmoil. There is political upheaval, and with wars and economic uncertainty, the arts, which only a few short years ago during the pandemic were so clearly valued, are coming under increased pressure. As we face all of this, we choose to breathe and to continue our mission to deliver excellence, to challenge but also to bring solace, to create a space in which we can continue, all of us, to come together and catch our breath.

As the arts come under pressure, so does funding for the arts. We would not be able to deliver on an annual basis were it not for the support that we receive from donors and sponsors. This year we are delighted to announce a three-year sponsorship with Aerogen - and again, our season's name could not be more fitting, as Aerogen aims to help people do exactly that - breathe.

Heartfelt thanks to all of our funders: Arts Council, Galway City Council, Galway County Council, our partners, especially our strategic partner the University of Galway, our sponsors (see p. 31) and all of our generous donors who keep our oxygen flowing.

And now, we invite you to breathe this new air and enjoy the season with us!

DRAGONFLY

TUESDAY 18 NOVEMBER 7.30PM
CAMPBELL'S TAVERN, HEADFORD

WEDNESDAY 19 NOVEMBER 7.30PM
BALLINFOILE CASTLEGAR NEIGHBOURHOOD CENTRE

Danusha Waskiewicz, voice and viola
Naomi Berrill, voice and cello

Dragonfly is a duo project by viola player Danusha Waskiewicz (formerly of the Berlin Philharmonic) and Headford cellist Naomi Berrill. The duo arranges and performs works by classical and baroque composers with an innovative approach as they both sing melodic lines as they play. In this way they shine fresh light on well-known compositions and create a new experience for both themselves and the audience.

The programme will include music by Bach, Dowland, Britten, Bartók and traditional Irish melodies.

Dragonfly will work with community singing groups supported by Galway City Partnership. These singers will join Dragonfly onstage on the night.

As part of the MfG Encore Series, a slightly shortened version of the programme will be performed at Campbell's Tavern, Headford on November 18th.

Supported by Galway City Partnership and Galway City Council through Creative Ireland.

MIDWINTER FESTIVAL: THE QUARTET EXTENDS

The string quartet is no stranger to Galway audiences, in no small part thanks to the tireless work of the ConTempo Quartet. With this festival, we seek to celebrate the versatility of the string quartet and to 'extend it' by pairing it up with a variety of different musicians to perform quartets, quintets, sextets and even an octet to finish. Mostly a celebration of the great musicians Ireland has to offer, we have invited a clarinettist, a soprano, a pianist, an uilleann piper and a second string quartet. We also invite our young Cellissimo Ambassador, Spanish cellist Margarita Guerrero Martinez, to join in for one of the concerts.

MUSIC FOR GOOD FRIDAY

FRIDAY 3 APRIL 5.00PM
ST. NICHOLAS' COLLEGIATE CHURCH

Collegium | Mark Duley, director

HEINRICH SCHÜTZ Mattäus-Passion SWV 479

Heinrich Schütz' Mattäus-Passion is one of the composer's three passions written towards the end of his life. These passions, and in particular the Mattäus-Passion, represent the crowning achievement of the greatest German composer of the seventeenth century, and paved the way for the later settings of J.S. Bach and others. The Mattäus-Passion is written for choir and ten soloists, including the major roles of Evangelist and Jesus. The whole work is unaccompanied, its spare texture nevertheless containing passages of rich harmonies and dramatic depictions of the Gospel narrative. This is a passion setting which is the perfect distilled reflection of Good Friday's stark atmosphere and scripture's compelling record.

Robert Finegan, saxophone and electronics

Robert Finegan presents a programme for saxophone and electronics that explores landscapes shaped by place and poetry. Beginning on Ireland's west coast and travelling swiftly to the ancient sites of the North-East, the music opens out into a terrain where lyricism and birdsong intertwine. Here, the voices of poets resound, echoing across this newly imagined landscape as sound and word merge into a living, breathing whole.

MusicConnects Ensemble Skills

Our collaboration with MusicConnects and its Ensemble Skills Programme continues in November and again in February when the students will have the opportunity to work with viola player Danusha Waskiewicz and cellist Naomi Berrill, and the Hard Rain Soloist Ensemble. These workshops will focus on the art of working, breathing and communicating as a musical unit.

Participants of the MusicConnects Ensemble Skills Programme working with percussionist Alex Petcu.

MfG Out & About

In line with our sustainability policy and our strategy to bring our wonderful artists to those who may find it difficult to join our regular concerts, we present MfG Out and About. These are smaller concerts tailored to particular circumstances but generally open to all. The 2025/26 season will see three such events: Dragonfly will appear in Croi House, our Cellissimo Ambassador Margarita Guerrero at Galway University Hospital, while saxophone player Robert Finegan will make his way to the Westside Resource Centre. More details to follow - join our mailing list!

Cellissimo and the Film Fleadh

We are proud to present the short documentary "Cellissimo" as part of Galway Film Fleadh 2026. Shot by young Berlin-based Galway filmmaker Maclaine Black it is a reflection on starting out on a career in classical music in today's world. This beautiful short will be preceded by a solo recital from Margarita Guerrero, our current Cellissimo Ambassador. Margarita, currently studying with Nathalie Clein, was part of the eight international masterclass students at Cellissimo 2024 who are at the centre of the film. In association with the Huston School of Film and Media at the University of Galway. More details to follow.

Galway Bay is Calling

The Galway Bay is Calling project grew offshoots and the resulting piece Leave No Trace, written as part of the project by Naomi Berrill, was performed twice more by the Galway Jam Circles, the Leave No Trace Choir, the Leave No Trace String Ensemble, and ConTempo Quartet as part of the Galway Sustainability Festival and the Westside Arts Festival.

The background of the entire image is a photograph of a coastal scene at sunset. In the foreground, there are dark, jagged rocks on the left and a pebbly shore with colorful stones in shades of blue, purple, and red on the right. In the middle ground, a concrete structure with a metal railing and a small lighthouse-like tower stands in the water. The sky is a mix of orange, yellow, and blue, and the water is calm, reflecting the sky and the structure. The overall mood is serene and scenic.

LATECOMERS

Please check starting times for individual concerts on our website. Latecomers will only be admitted during a break in the programme.

TICKETS

Concessions are 10% off standard priced tickets and apply to senior citizens (over 66).

Solidarity tickets are 50% off standard priced tickets and are available to full time students, asylum seekers, people in receipt of job seeker allowance and disability allowance. Solidarity tickets can be purchased online and collected at the door with proof of relevant status. Solidarity refers to ticket price only and does not denote a relaxed performance.

Please note that all tickets are non-refundable.

RELAXED PERFORMANCES

Our lunchtime performances, in partnership with Arts in Action at the University of Galway and MfG Out and About concerts are designated as relaxed performances. This means that in this context we strive to create a welcoming space for everyone, to provide a chance for us all to enjoy the best of music with the understanding that some of us may benefit from a more relaxed setting. To make these concerts more accessible, rather than producing written programme notes, the artists will introduce the pieces they have chosen. This also means that we all (including the artists) will be accepting and welcoming, should there be more movement or sound in the room. In this context we embrace the fact that enjoyment comes in all shapes and sizes!
